The legal process for Quebec divorce requires a significant amount of details and supporting documents.

The court requires this information, but our policy is to keep this information as private as possible, so some information forms will be sent for you to complete. We have made it easier with fill-in-the-blank forms in Word format. Even so, your paperwork must be reviewed and double checked.

Your paperwork is not completed overnight because it takes time to get things correct. It is vital that every form be correct and that you give the court the required supporting documents.
